How did the Fund perform last year?

- For the reporting period ended February 28, 2026, the Fund returned 6.24%.
- For the same period, the Bloomberg U.S. Universal Index returned 6.53% and the Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Bond Index returned 6.26%.

What contributed to performance?

U.S. bond markets gained during the reporting period, supported by a resilient domestic economy despite conflicting data. The Federal Reserve (“Fed”) reduced rates by 75 basis points across three 25 basis point rate cuts in late 2025, prompted by a cooling labor market amid elevated inflation. The yield on the 10-year U.S. Treasury ended lower as investors negotiated the Trump Administration’s trade policies, a prolonged U.S. government shutdown, and increasing geopolitical tensions later in the period. In this environment, Treasury securities contributed the most to the Fund’s return, followed by securitized bonds. Longer-dated issues, those between seven and ten years, and bonds over ten years, benefited performance. By credit rating, investment-grade bonds rated Aa by Moody’s, also supported the Fund’s return.

What detracted from performance?

During the reporting period, there were no significant detractors from the Fund’s return.
