What contributed to performance?

Chinese equities were the largest contributors to the Fund’s return during the reporting period. While tariff tensions increased volatility, equities were supported by government stimulus and improved investor sentiment. Within the consumer discretionary sector, a broadline retailer contributed amid rapid growth in its cloud and digital commerce units. In the communication sector, a multinational technology and entertainment conglomerate gained due to strong growth in its gaming and advertising units. Additionally, in the financials sector, insurance companies were driven by a rising stock market, supportive regulatory policies, and favorable demographic trends. In Taiwan, a major semiconductor supplier was supported by surging demand for artificial intelligence chips and continued innovation, despite the threat of tariffs, while a manufacturer of networking and communications equipment gained due to growing demand for artificial intelligence infrastructure demand.

What detracted from performance?

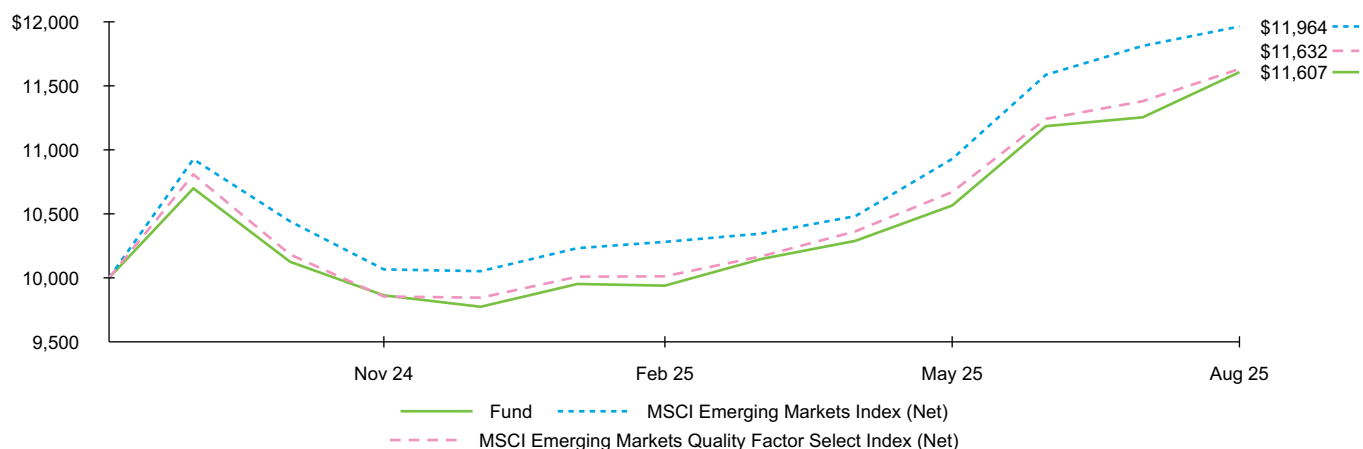

Indian stocks detracted from the Fund’s return due to foreign investor outflow and global trade uncertainty as a result of tariffs from the United States, which began during the reporting period. The tariffs resulted in a sharp drop in exports and sharp equity market volatility.
