How did the Fund perform last year?

- For the reporting period ended October 31, 2025, the Fund returned 6.81%.
- For the same period, the ICE BofA US Broad Market Index returned 6.13% and the ICE 2029 Maturity US Inflation-Linked Treasury Index returned 6.89%.

What contributed to performance?

Mixed economic signals, shifting monetary policies, and ongoing global trade tensions influenced Treasury Inflation Protected Securities (“TIPS”) returns during the reporting period, while the late-period U.S. government shutdown added to market volatility. After cutting rates in December of 2024, the Federal Reserve held policy rates steady through the first part of the year, before cutting rates by 25 basis points in both September and October 2025 as evidence of a cooling labor market outweighed persistent, though elevated, inflation concerns. This environment led Fund’s with allocation to six to eight-year issues to contribute the most to performance.

Fed funds futures (WIRP) repriced sharply after the September and October rate cuts, signaling expectations for continued easing and driving real yields lower. Meanwhile, inflation expectations held near 2.3% despite moderating headline CPI, sustaining demand for TIPS and supporting relative outperformance versus nominal Treasuries.

What detracted from performance?

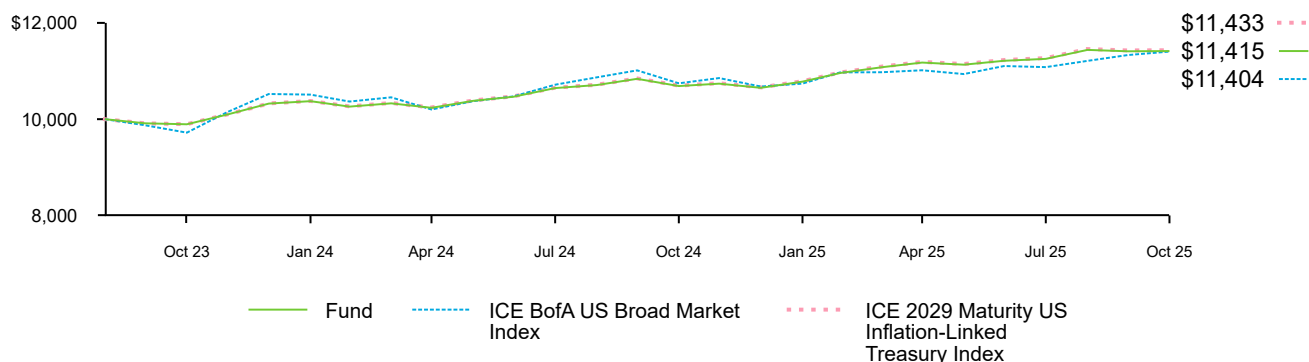

There were no notable detractors from the Fund’s performance during the reporting period.
