What were the Fund costs for the last year?

(based on a hypothetical $10,000 investment)

Fund name	Costs of a $10,000 investment	Costs paid as a percentage of a $10,000 investment
iShares S&P Small-Cap 600 Growth ETF	$18	0.18%

How did the Fund perform last year?

- For the reporting period ended March 31, 2025, the Fund returned (3.87)%.
- For the same period, the S&P Total Market Index returned 7.09% and the S&P SmallCap 600 Growth Index™ returned (3.70)%.

What contributed to performance?

Financial stocks contributed to the Fund's return during the reporting period. While the Federal Reserve cut interest rates during the reporting period, they remained relatively high, keeping lending rates elevated and helping to boost net interest income (the difference between the rates banks charge for loans and the rates they pay for deposits) for regional banks. Overall, insurance companies were supported by rising premiums. In healthcare, certain pharmaceutical names benefited from positive clinical trial outcomes.

What detracted from performance?

During the reporting period, the information technology sector detracted from the Fund's return. Semiconductor and semiconductor equipment suppliers exposed to the PC, smartphone, industrial, and automotive sectors generally saw fundamentals under pressure due to weak end demand conditions and excess inventory. Valuations of application software names were challenged due shifting spending trends and general market uncertainty. The energy sector was also a notable detractor, marked by significant volatility amid trade uncertainty and as OPEC+ announced a production increase amid slowing energy demand in major economies. Within industrials, capital goods manufacturers were negatively impacted by weaker global trade volumes, elevated material costs, and trade uncertainty.
