How did the Fund perform during the period?

- For the same period, the Russell 1000® Index returned 6.64% and the Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Bond Index returned 3.52%.

What contributed to performance?

During the reporting period, equity markets registered solid gains, outperforming the modest gains of fixed-income securities. Across the LifePath® vintages, information technology stocks in the U.S. large-capitalization space were the largest driver of returns. Semiconductor stocks gained amid unprecedented demand for artificial intelligence (“AI”) and generative AI, data center expansions, and continued innovation in chips and network solutions, while systems software firms benefited from strong growth in their respective cloud businesses and increasing adoption of AI technologies. Stocks in the financials sector were also notable contributors, benefiting from resilient equity markets, rising assets under management, strong trends in wealth management, and high trading volumes. International developed stocks also benefited performance. Optimism surrounding a historic fiscal stimulus plan targeting infrastructure and defense supported firms in the German industrials space.

The bond allocation also gained during the reporting period. For the retirement and earlier-dated vintages, inflation-protected securities rose as pricing pressures remained elevated and tariff uncertainty raised future pricing expectations.

What detracted from performance?

Given the strength of equity and bond markets during the reporting period, there were no material detractors to the performance of any of the vintages.
