iShares Russell 3000 ETF	$21	0.20%

How did the Fund perform last year?

- For the reporting period ended March 31, 2025, the Fund returned 7.02%.
- For the same period, the Russell 3000® Index returned 7.22%.

What contributed to performance?

Financials stocks were the main contributors to the Fund’s return during the reporting period. While the Federal Reserve cut interest rates during the reporting period, they remained relatively high, keeping lending rates elevated and helping to boost net interest income (the difference between the rates banks charge for loans and the rates they pay for deposits) for banks. Capital markets firms were supported by strong trading activity, and a resurgence in wealth management and investment banking units. The information technology sector also contributed due to an innovative multinational technology company benefiting from consistently strong brand recognition and the robust ecosystem of its products and services. Additionally, optimism was further fueled by the potential of emerging technologies to enhance product development and operational efficiency. In the communication sector, interactive media and services stocks contributed, as the benefits of investments in artificial intelligence for online advertising came to fruition.

What detracted from performance?

There were no significant detractors from returns during the reporting period.
