(based on a hypothetical $10,000 investment)

Fund name	Costs of a $10,000 investment	Costs paid as a percentage of a $10,000 investment
iShares U.S. Financial Services ETF	$43	0.38%

How did the Fund perform last year?

- For the reporting period ended April 30, 2025, the Fund returned 23.92%.
- For the same period, the S&P Total Market Index returned 11.25% and the Dow Jones U.S. Financial Services Index™ returned 24.38%.

What contributed to performance?

Financial services stocks registered robust performance during the reporting period, significantly contributing to the Fund’s return. Overall, these firms were supported by strong earnings, growing trading volumes, and the prospects of a loosening regulatory regime under the new presidential administration. Diversified banks exhibited robust earnings, witnessing increases in advisory fees and deal-making revenues. Within the financial services segment, a multinational conglomerate holding company was supported by its long-term, value-oriented investment strategy, which focuses on well-run businesses and quality investments. The capital markets space, which includes asset management and custody banks, investment banking and brokerage, and financial exchanges and data, was further supported by increased trading activity and solid investment banking revenues. Transaction and payment processing services firms benefited from tailwinds including strong consumer spending and increased payment volume in digital transactions.

What detracted from performance?

There were no significant detractors from the Fund’s return during the reporting period.
